Nov 16, 2017( MarketersMedia News Hub: <http://marketersmedia.com/news-hub> Delivered by Newstex) There is a great news for foreigners who are planning to visit Vietnam. In early 2017, Vietnam government approved to launch a two-year pilot program of issuing a new electronic visa type for foreign citizens from 40 countries in the world. November 16, 2017 // — Years ago, the only option to get a visa to Vietnam was making a visa request at the Vietnam Embassy or Consulates. In 2003, Vietnam visa on arrival was released to solve the problem of increasing number of visa applications at the embassy.

Since then, foreign tourists have had an easy way to get a Vietnam visa stamp at the airport instead of taking time completing the long visa process at the embassy. With an attempt to create favorable conditions for tourists and enterprises coming to Vietnam, the Vietnam government has established many visa policies for applying and issuing visas. And one of them is Vietnam E-visa[1] which is another type of Vietnam online visa. This electronic visa is an official document that is granted by the Immigration Department for visitors wanting to enter and leave Vietnam for only one time. Travelers can complete the Vietnam e-visa application by themselves or through a travel agency or organizations which are given a privilege to grant E-visa by the Vietnam Immigration Department[2]. Evisa Vietnam helps visitors reduce the time and money they have to spend on complicated paperwork. In addition, travelers do not have to fill out the visa application and either send it by mail or submit directly at the embassy. Like Vietnam on arrival visa[3], evisa can be obtained by following simple online steps at anywhere with the Internet connection. However, travelers no need to pass the step of getting the Vietnam letter of approval because E-visa is issued and sent back to its applicants via email. Travelers, therefore, can print it out and take it along during their trip. The validity of Vietnam e-visa is 30 days for a single entry so it is suitable for visitors coming and staying Vietnam for a short period. Vietnam e visa cost is $25 and paid through an online transaction. Moreover, please remember that this fee will not be refunded if the Vietnam e-visa transaction is declined. Up to now, the E visa for Vietnam is applicable for both tourist and business purposes. However, the visa extension policy still has not been applied for this visa type. Businessmen or tourists who want to extend their stay in Vietnam are suggested to opt for another visa-making method. With the long-term improvement, evisa for Vietnam is accepted at 28 gates in Vietnam, including 8 international airports, 13 international border gates, and 7 seaports across Vietnam. This convenience gives travelers more options to enter Vietnam by various means of transport instead of only by airplane like Vietnam visa on arrival. Based on the approval of the Vietnam government and Immigration Department, Greenvisa [4] is established to follow the government policy in providing foreigners Vietnam visa service.
