Re: ""Place life over wealth': Mountain View tenants rise up to save vanishing rent-controlled units"
(Mercurynews.com, Oct. 6):

People in the Bay Area are living in fear. According to this article, 60% of the Bay Area population rents. All of them are under attack. Mountain View tenants just got news to re-locate. Their homes are planned to be torn down, and replaced with expensive condos.

There is a need for cheaper housing and better living conditions in the Bay Area. Residents have chosen to fight. Several Mountain View residents have collaborated and are trying to form a union. Together people are strong, creating this union could be the first step in a wave of affordable housing in the Bay Area. Everyone in the Bay Area should support this movement because we are all targets.
