Nov 03, 2018(Western Free Press: <http://www.westernfreepress.com/Delivered> by Newstex) How many women and children do you see in the caravan??? Dave Mike Pence: Migrant caravan was financed in part by Venezuela[1]: Vice President Mike Pence tells FOX Business' Trish Regan that the migrant caravan heading toward the U.S. border was organized by leftist groups in Honduras and was partially financed by Venezuela. 100 Central American Migrants Cross into South Texas in One Day, Say Border Patrol[2] Note: This count does not include the Mexicans who were caught Dave Bob Price Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 Central American migrants continue to flow into the Rio Grande Valley Sector in large numbers, Border Patrol officials say. In about 24 hours, agents apprehended nearly 100 from Central American countries including families and unaccompanied minors.

Weslaco Station agents working near the border town of Hidalgo, Texas, encountered one large group of migrants on Tuesday evening. Agents said the group gathered along the U.S. side of the Rio Grande border with Mexico before moving out to find a law enforcement officer so they could surrender, according to Border Patrol officials. The Border Patrol agents rounded up the migrants and placed them into custody, officials stated. The agents interviewed the group of 30 and learned they came to the U.S. without documentation from Guatemala. The following day, Weslaco Station agents came upon another large group near the Hidalgo Pump House, officials stated. The agents took the 69 migrants, mostly from El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras, into custody for immigration violations. Many of those apprehended are expected to request asylum and will likely be released. In a separate incident on Wednesday morning, Breitbart News reported that Weslaco Station agents apprehended another group of 74 migrants. This group was also found near Hidalgo, Texas, officials stated. The apprehension of these large groups of migrants comes as a third caravan is bound for the U.S. from Central America, Breitbart News reported[3] on Wednesday More[4] Donald Trump: Military Should Fight Back at Caravan Migrants Throwing Rocks[5] Charlie Spiering Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 President Donald Trump warned caravan migrants traveling to the Southern border of the United States on Thursday that he would not put up with violent attacks, even if it was just people throwing rocks. Trump instructed the military to treat an attack from rocks the same as an attack from a rifle. 'Anybody throwing stones, rocks, we will consider that a firearm because there's not much difference when you get hit in the face with a rock,' he said, referring to the group attacking border guards in Mexico. 'We're not going to put up with that, they throw rocks at our military, our military fights back We're going to consider, and I told them, consider it a rifle.' Trump said that he hoped that there would not be violence, and urged the caravans of migrants to turn back. The president delivered a lengthy address in the Roosevelt Room at the White House on illegal immigration and the 'crisis' of caravans of migrants marching from Central America to claim asylum in the United States. 'At this very moment large well-organized caravans of migrants are marching towards our Southern border,' Trump said. 'It's like an invasion. They have violently overrun the Mexican border.' He vowed to stop the flood of migrants who were 'rushing our border' on a daily basis, taking every lawful action to protect the American people. 'These illegal caravans will not be allowed into the United States, they should turn back now, they are wasting their time,' Trump said. He said that he would no longer allow migrants to enter the country simply by claiming asylum and setting them free into the United States while waiting for a court hearing. 'We're not releasing them into our country any longer,' Trump said, promising to hold migrants in tents on the borders More[6] Donald Trump Defends Military Deployment to the Border: 'We Have to Have a Wall of People'[7] Charlie Spiering Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 President Donald Trump defended Wednesday his decision to send the military to the border in response to the migrant caravan headed for the United States. 'It's very important,' Trump said. 'We have to have a wall of people very highly trained people, terrific, dedicated patriots.' The president commented on his commitment to secure the border during an interview with ABC News reporter Jonathan Karl. Trump dismissed Karl's description of the caravan as mostly women and children who were 'deeply impoverished people fleeing violence.' 'Actually mostly young men,' Trump said. 'And a lot of rough people they are pushing the women right up to the front not good and the kids right up to the front.' The Pentagon announced that they were sending 5,200 troops to the border on Monday, but Trump said he would send up to 15,000 troops to secure the border if necessary. Trump defended his decision as a way to send the strongest message possible to the continued flood of migrant caravans toward the United States. 'They can't invade our country,' he said. 'You look at that it almost looks like an invasion.' Here's why Trump's crackdown on illegal immigration protects all Americans[8] Charlie Kirk Fox News November 1, 2018 President Trump's actions announced Thursday and in previous days to protect our southern border from illegal immigrants should be welcomed by all Americans because they will protect our national security and reduce the flow of deadly illegal drugs into our country. The president is right when he calls the entry of illegal immigrants gathered in caravans now traveling through Mexico 'an invasion.' While his critics accuse the president of playing politics with the immigration issue, in reality he is fulfilling his responsibility to defend our nation by sending several thousand troops to protect our border and taking other actions. In remarks at the White House on Thursday the president said he will require immigrants seeking asylum in the U.S. to 'lawfully present themselves' at a port of entry. President Trump also announced the end of the 'catch and release' policy under which illegal immigrants apprehended by U.S. law enforcement officers are given court dates and then released - enabling many to melt into the population, never show up in court and remain in the U.S. illegally. The president's plan to review and tighten the controls over our immigrant asylum process also makes sense. As he pointed out, U.S. law requires that people applying for asylum need to show a 'credible fear' of prosecution for political, religious or a small number of other factors - not simply that they are coming to America to escape poverty and improve their living standards. We'll know more about President Trump's proposals next week, when he said he will issue a 'comprehensive' executive order on immigration More[9] Claire McCaskill Rubber-Stamped Plan to End All Immigration Enforcement in U.S.[10] John Binder Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 Sen. Claire McCaskill (D-MO) has most recently shifted gears on immigration, talking tough on border issues, although months ago the lawmaker co-sponsored legislation to end all immigration enforcement. During an interview[11] with Fox News this week, McCaskill said she supports President Trump's efforts to stop a migrant caravan of at least 7,000 to 10,000 Central Americans. 'I think the president has to use every tool he has at his disposal, and I 100 percent back him up on that, whether it is turning them back because we are not equipped to handle that many asylum claims into our system,' McCaskill said. 'I do not want our borders overrun and I support the president's efforts to make sure they're not.' McCaskill's tough rhetoric on the border comes at the same time of her re-election bid, where she faces a tough challenge from Republican candidate Josh Hawley. Aside from McCaskill's F rating[12] from NumbersUSA indicating she supports amnesty, more legal immigration, and more importation of foreign workers less than six months ago, McCaskill co-sponsored Sen. Dianne Feinstein's (D-CA) open borders legislation that would end all immigration enforcement across the United States McCaskill joined every Senate Democrat in co-sponsoring the legislation which would, as Breitbart News[13] noted, prevent nearly every federal arrest at both the country's northern and southern border. Feinstein's legislation would also mandate that all children traveling with illegal alien adults across the border be kept with those border crossers, a plan that would force federal immigration officials to release the border crossing adult-child unit into the interior of the U.S. Sen. Tom Cotton (R-AR) previously called[14] the Feinstein legislation 'Child Trafficking Encouragement Act,' as it allows human smugglers to stay with the children they have trafficked at the border More[15] Watch-Democrat in Mollie Tibbetts' District: Illegal Aliens 'Desperately Need' Amnesty[16] John Binder Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 Democrat Abby Finkenauer, running against Rep. Rod Blum in Iowa's 1st Congressional District, says illegal aliens 'desperately need' amnesty to permanently remain in the United States. During a debate against Blum, Finkenauer said she supported amnesty for all 12 to 22 million illegal aliens living in the U.S., adding she supporters giving 'earned citizenship' to the entire illegal population: We desperately need a comprehensive immigration reform package. It's something again, I don't think Democrats or Republicans have gotten right yes, we have to have border security. We've got to have an earned pathway to citizenship for the folks who are already here, bringing them out of the shadows, keeping our communities safe. [Emphasis added] At the same time, we also have to have a pathway for our DREAMers as well and also we need to be investing in E-Verify, making that mandatory and also at the same time, making sure that we are funding it so that our business works as its supposed to. [Emphasis added] Make sure that we have a pathway for our DREAMers and an earned pathway to citizenship for the folks who are already here so that we have safer communities. That's what we've got to do. [Emphasis added] Finkenauer's support for amnesty for illegal aliens is particularly noteworthy, as she is running in the district where 20-year-old college student Mollie Tibbetts was allegedly murdered by an illegal alien More[17] CNN, Hollywood Reporter Declare New Trump Ad Against Caravan 'Racist'[18] Joel B. Pollak Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 President Donald Trump took to Twitter to share a new ad on Wednesday evening against allowing the migrant caravan from Central America to enter the United States. CNN and the Hollywood Reporter declared it 'racist.' The ad features Luis Bracamontes, an illegal alien who was convicted earlier this year for murdering two police officers in 2014 in California. In court, he laughed and shouted[19] that he wanted to kill more. Several months later, he continued his outbursts in a sentencing hearing when victims of his many violent crimes testified against him, including a black driver named Anthony Holmes, whom he had shot five times while on his killing spree. Bracamontes specifically used a racial epithet when taunting Holmes, the Sacramento Bee reported[20] at the time. It is outrageous what the Democrats are doing to our Country. Vote Republican now! <https://t.co/OpWiwCHGbh>[21] pic.twitter.com/2crea9HF7G[22] Donald J. Trump (@realDonaldTrump) October 31, 2018[23] The words 'Democrats let him stay' appear over footage of Bracamontes, followed by several clips of the caravan, including video of migrants rushing a border gate and trying to force it open. The video also includes a Fox News interview[24] in which one of the migrants admitted that he had previously been deported for attempted murder. The ad concludes as the words 'Who else would Democrats let in?' appear superimposed on footage of the caravan. The ad reinforces the themes of President Trump's criticism of Democrats' immigration policy, in which he has highlighted the security risks of failing to defend the border, and granting asylum to people who are not 'refugees.' The media, however, immediately branded the ad 'racist.' The Hollywood Reporter published an article[25] under the headline, 'Trump Shares Racist Pro-GOP Ad for Midterms,' as if the term 'racist' represented fact, not opinion. What makes the ad racist, the Hollywood Reporter claimed, is it 'draws comparisons between Central American immigrants seeking refuge in the U.S. and one man convicted of the murder of two policemen.' More[26] Watch: Celebrities Beg People to Vote- Trump Administration 'Keeping Children in Cages'[27] Warner Todd Huston Breitbart News 31 Oct 2018 Another group of Hollywood celebrities has come out with a get out the vote ad, this time driving a left-wing message attacking President Donald Trump for 'keeping children in cages,' despite the fact that the same immigration policy was implemented during the Obama era. The ad features[28] actors such as Andy Richter of Conan O'Brien late-night show fame, The Big Bang Theory's Simon Helberg and Melissa Rauch, Bradley Whitford from the series The West Wing, commercial actress Milana Vayntrub, and several others urging people to vote. The ad is titled, 'The Last Weekend,' and is aimed at getting Americans interested in voting. It's up to you. #TheLastWeekend[29] <https://t.co/WQBeLXAAT>[30] pic.twitter.com/8UpstsqqTW[31] Swing Left (@swingleft) October 31, 2018[32]; The theme of the ad takes viewers through an action movie scenario called, 'The Last Weekend,' but then segues into the fact that this really is the last weekend before Election Day. The stars then urge fans to volunteer for the partisan 'Swing Left' campaign to get liberal voters to the polls by November 6. Why should we vote? Well, according to these stars we are 'fighting' against Russian bots, voting to secure 'a woman's right to choose' (as long as they don't choose life), and fighting against 'our government keeping children in cages.' Of course, none of the stars mention that this policy of detaining children brought here illegally by foreign migrants is a policy that has been around since the late 1990s and that Barack Obama also kept 'children in cages' as their status was cleared up. In fact, one of the reasons children are separated from the adults that bring them into the country is because often these kids are being trafficked and used as shields by people who turn out not to be the kids' parents. Indeed, during the Trump administration arrests for human trafficking have surged More[33] Judd Apatow: Murdochs and Fox News sowing 'Hate' with Caravan Coverage[34] Justin Caruso Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 Hollywood director Judd Apatow went after the Murdoch family Thursday for Fox News' coverage of the migrant caravan heading toward the United States, accusing the network of sowing 'hate and division.' 'This is the work of Lachlan and James Murdoch. Here in Hollywood we see them at parties and everyone kisses their asses because they are a job source and they ignore the hate and division they sow in this country. Maybe find someone else to sell your shows to,' Judd Apatow said, linking to a video of Fox News hosts discussing the migrant caravan. This is the work of Lachlan and James Murdoch. They could care less how their business spreads hate and pain. <https://t.co/jz1KnKtpZu>[37] Judd Apatow (@JuddApatow)

October 1, 2018[38] Apatow's recent comments come as some liberals have renewed attacks on Fox News due to many on-air commentators' critical comments about the caravan of migrants from Central America. Many have also criticized Fox News, as well as other conservative news outlets over their coverage of George Soros More[39] Pope Francis: 'Nations Are Built by Migrants'[40] The Pope has been damaging his credibility with every move lately What he calls the 'migrants' who 'built Europe' were actually the invaders who destroyed the Roman Empire[41] In the Pope's revisionist history, these 'migrants' were a good thing and the invasions and ensuing Dark Ages is an experience worth repeating today If the Pope really believes what he says he should let a few thousand 'Syrian refugees' immigrate to the Vatican The Vatican is a country, after all a country that should live up to the multicultural dreams of its leader Dave Thomas D. Williams, PhD Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 Nations do not build themselves, they 'are built by migrants, just as migrants built Europe,' Pope Francis told a group of missionaries this week. 'Europe was not just born like that Europe was made by many waves of migrants over the centuries.' Using the example of the 'caravan traveling from Honduras to the United States,' Francis said that migrants prefer to stick together, to move as a group rather than to go it alone like 'free agents.' In this way, migrants form their own 'communities.' More[42] Steve King Pushes Back on 'Desperate' Midterm Smear Campaign[43] Penny Starr Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 The left and the leftist media are targeting Rep. Steve King (R-IA) because of his support for President Donald Trump's immigration reform agenda, including building a wall at the southern border and ending birthright citizenship for children of mothers in the United States illegally, which he put into proposed legislation in 2011. 'Great news! President Trump will end 'Birthright Citizenship' for Illegal Aliens! I have been the leader author to this legislation (HR 140) since 2011, and I am very happy that my legislation will soon be national policy! Thank you @realDonaldTrump[44]!' King tweeted But King's earlier tweet was in response to the ongoing attacks by leftists in media, which King has called 'desperate' and nasty. 'Americans, all created equal by God, with all our races, ethnicities, and national origins-legal immigrants natural born citizens, together make up the Shining City on the Hill. These attacks are orchestrated by nasty, desperate and dishonest fake news. Their ultimate goal is to flip the House and impeach Donald Trump. Establishment Never Trumpers are complicit,' King tweeted. King Response pic.twitter.com/H8iXl3cM1x[45] Steve King (@SteveKingIA) October 30, 2018[46]; King's reaction is tame compared to claims about him, including in the Huffington Post, which headlined its article published on Monday, 'Iowa Newspaper Breaks Tradition To Back Rep. Steve King's Democratic Challenger: The Sioux City Journal opts not to support the white supremacist's re-election bid.' 'The editorial board of a major Iowa newspaper has endorsed Rep. Steve King's Democratic challenger for Congress, bucking its longtime support for one of the GOP's most-openly racist lawmakers,' the Huffington Post reported More[47] Kobach accuses CNN's Jeffrey Toobin of advancing 'racist argument' in fight over voter-ID laws[48] Gregg Re Fox News November 1, 2018 Speaking to Fox News' 'Tucker Carlson Tonight'[49] on Thursday, Kansas Republican gubernatorial candidate Kris Kobach accused CNN legal analyst Jeffrey Toobin of advancing a 'racist argument' just one day after Toobin charged that Kobach wanted to 'stop black people and poor people from voting.' In a fiery on-air debate with Kobach on CNN[50], Toobin flatly claimed that Kobach, who currently serves as Kansas secretary of state, consistently has aimed to disenfranchise minorities. 'Kris has devoted his career to stopping black people and poor people from voting I mean, that's been your goal for decades,' Toobin said. The GOP gubernatorial nominee has been a staunch advocate of voter-ID laws. This summer, in a harshly worded ruling, a federal judge struck down[51] a Kobach-backed proof-of-citizenship law that required voters to show proof of citizenship at the ballot box. The law was a violation of federal law and the Constitution, the judge ruled. (Recently enacted voter ID laws in other states, including Texas, have seen more success[52] in the courts.) 'That is an outrageous accusation,' Kobach responded to Toobin. 'Oh, so if you like photo ID, you're trying to stop people of color from voting?' 'Absolutely,' Toobin shot back. On Thursday, Kobach tried to turn the tables on Toobin, alleging that he actually was advancing racist stereotypes. 'The argument itself is a racist one,' Kobach told host Tucker Carlson. 'The argument is that somehow because of your skin color, you are less likely to have in your wallet a photo ID, or you're less likely to be able to go to a government office and get a free photo ID it's a ridiculous argument, it's been disproven empirically in state after state, but the hard left, and increasingly the entire left, keeps making the argument.' A 2017 study[53] conducted by three political science professors and published in The Journal of Politics found 'that strict identification laws have a differentially negative impact on the turnout of racial and ethnic minorities in primaries and

general elections.' The study, which was also promoted by The Washington Post, continued: 'We also find that voter ID laws skew democracy toward those on the political right.' However, a follow-up study[54] by top professors at Stanford, Yale, and the University of Pennsylvania concluded that the 2017 study was unreliable and that voter ID laws didn't have nearly as much of an impact[55]. 'Maybe it's not racist for your bank to insist on an ID when you cash a check,' Kobach told Carlson. 'It must be racist. Nevermind that it's an incoherent statement. Now, even to suggest that voter fraud exists which it does, and we've prosecuted many cases in my office as secretary of state in Kansas is racist. If you want to enforce our laws, you must be a racist. If you want to stop the caravan, you must be a racist. It just cuts off the debate completely.' The video and more[56] Associated Press Spreads Fake News: Trump Kids Received Birthright Citizenship[57] If the Associated Press had made an honest mistake they would have just fessed up and told the truth. Instead, they cooked up another lie to imply that there was some question as to whether President Trump's first three children were natural U.S. citizens. The Associated Press is almost as bad as the Saudi government[58] Dave John Nolte Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 The Associated Press spread the fake news Wednesday that President Trump's first three children received birthright citizenship. Worse still, after claiming the piece has been corrected, the AP is still attempting to spread the outrageous lie that it is kind of true. Trump's oldest three children were granted birthright citizenship. In what is yet another example of the garbage fire the establishment media have become in the age of Trump, the AP originally published the story with the headline, 'President Trump's First 3 Children Received Birthright Citizenship.' No doubt, the AP thought it had the gotcha of all gotchas on its hands. Trump announced on Tuesday that he intends to use an executive order to cancel the madness that is birthright citizenship, the loophole in our immigration law that allows illegal aliens to sneak into the country and give birth, thus ensuring their children are granted automatic American citizenship and all the free welfare benefits that go with it. This has become such a problem that these anchor babies, as they are called, now outnumber[59] the children born of legal citizens. According to the Daily Wire[60], under that fake news headline, the botched AP story opened with this: 'CLAIM: Ivana Trump wasn't a citizen until 1988. She gave birth to Don Jr. in 1977, Ivanka in 1981 and Eric in 1984. Therefore they received birthright citizenship, which Trump wants to end.' To make matters worse, the AP wrote the article as part of a fact checking agreement with Facebook, and in doing so, spread the bald-faced lie that Trump's oldest children were granted birthright citizenship. Eventually, the AP corrected its headline. It now reads, 'President Trump's first 3 children did not receive birthright citizenship.' A correction noting the mistake was added in the piece, but still, in its so-called fact check, rather than correctly label the claim that Trump's oldest children received birthright citizenship as false (which it objectively is), the far-left AP said it is a 'mixture' of fact and fiction:[61] AP'S ASSESSMENT: 'Mixture. It's true that Ivana Trump was not a citizen until 1988, but the father of her children was a U.S. citizen and there would have been no special status needed to make them citizens.' This, of course, is a lie. When Trump's first three children were born, Trump was a U.S. citizen, therefore his children are U.S. citizens which means his children are U.S. citizens, period. There is no mixed assessment of that fact. More[62] Watch: Oprah Invokes Lynching, Oppression in Campaign Speech for Stacey Abrams[63] Wow The latest Democrat strategy is to campaign for their candidates on the basis of past injustices rather than the actual merits of their candidates. This is the same stunt they tried to pull on Kavanaugh attempting to deny him a seat on the Supreme Court because of women who identified with victimhood in general ranted against him and not because Kavanaugh had actually done anything to anyone. Dave Joshua Caplan Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 In a Thursday speech in the Republican-leaning suburbs of Atlanta, Georgia, Oprah Winfrey urged voters to make history by backing Democratic gubernatorial candidate Stacey Abrams in next week's election, saying she refuses to allow the sacrifices of those who were 'lynched' and 'oppressed' to be 'in vain.' 'I paid to come here myself, and I approved this message,' Winfrey said, explaining that she tracked down Abrams' cell phone number and called her to say she wanted to offer assistance in the final days of the campaign. 'I'm here today because of the men and because of the women who were lynched, who were humiliated, who were discriminated against, who were suppressed, who were repressed and oppressed,' Winfrey told attendees at the Cobb Civic Center Jennie T. Tammy Bruce: The Democrats' never-ending meltdown[82] Tammy Bruce The Washington Times November 1, 2018 Just when you think you've seen the ultimate meltdown of the Democratic Party[83], there's always more. The hearing for Justice Brett M. Kavanaugh was an utter debacle for the Democrats. But it also provided an opportunity for reassessing their view of the world and attitude about the American people. They clearly chose not to do so and are now doubling down on hate. The obviously new narrative from the Democratic Party[84] and their enablers is the insane insistence that President Donald Trump is responsible for the horrible Pittsburgh synagogue massacre and is a dangerous and horrific artifact of desperate people who seek to use every human crisis as a political opportunity. In the aftermath of the synagogue massacre, two people fanatically opposed to the president have gone on national television and compared the president and his voters, in one case, to the Islamic State terrorist group (also known as ISIS) and, in the other, claimed the president and his supporters of having 'blood on their hands.' On Monday at CNN, just two days after the synagogue horror, GQ columnist Julia Ioffe made headlines. During a debate segment she said, 'I think this president, one of the things that he really launched his presidential run on is talking about Islamic radicalization. And this president has radicalized so many more people than ISIS ever did.' David Urban, a Trump supporter and another guest on the panel, confronted her on-air for the remark. After Jake Tapper declined to push back on the claim, Ms. Ioffe doubled-down on comparing supporters of the president to the blood-thirsty terrorists, 'ISIS had like 10,000 members. I think the president has far more supporters who espouse an equally hateful ideology,' Ioffe retorted. Also within two days of the mass murder, Steve Schmidt, chairman of the John McCain 2008 campaign and hater of Mr. Trump, went on MSNBC to discuss the massacre, and instead used the horror to unleash a screed against those whom he despises. He declared the president and others 'had blood on their hands.' Without any pushback from host Chris Hayes, he said Counselor to the President Kellyanne Conway and 'the vile president that she serves, abetted by Mark Levin and Rush Limbaugh and Breitbart and NewBusters and Judicial Watch and all the rest of them, have blood on their hands. For the incitements that they have made that have triggered and radicalized these crazy people. It is deliberate ' This frenzy to cast fellow Americans as dangerous terrorists because you disagree with them politically is beyond any normal or acceptable political discourse. It's one thing to target the direct political opponent with rhetoric that is unseemly. But here we have the failing establishment, both Democrats and in some cases Republicans, choosing to malign the actual voters in the week leading up to an election. Hillary Clinton's declaration that the president's supporters were 'deplorable' and 'not American' was the moment the losers in 2016 decided a scorched earth campaign punishing those who did not comply would be their new strategy. It is now apparent Rep. Maxine Waters of California was not a rogue congresswoman calling for the harassment of Republicans; she was simply carrying forward the official Democratic torch. What would possess the Democrats to think that attacking the American people would be their salvation? We may have received a clue as to their expectations when Clinton said that the instability would stop when they regained the House of Representatives. In 2016, the American public saw through the attempts to gaslight them into believing things that aren't true. One of those false assertions is how the Democratic Party[85] cares about the American people and are champions on the issues we care about. Their latest accusations, attitude and lack of any coherent position on policy for this country, proves not just the chaotic incompetence now destroying that side of the aisle, but makes clear their actual malevolence toward the citizen. After all, we are the ones who fired them, and we are the ones they are determined to punish More[86] L.A. Times Endorses 3 White Candidates in English and Their Latino Rivals, in Spanish[87] Opportunistic pandering and hypocrisy at its worst Dave Joel B. Pollak Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 The Los Angeles Times is facing criticism after it endorsed three white candidates in its English edition, but endorsed their Latino opponents in its Spanish edition. The discrepancy was caught by a Latino-themed website, latinorebels.com[88]. The races include: U.S. Senate, where the English version endorsed incumbent Sen. Dianne Feinstein, but the Spanish version endorsed challenger State Sen. Kevin de Leon (D-Los Angeles); California Insurance Commissioner, where the English version endorsed independent (and former incumbent) Steve Poizner, but the Spanish version endorsed State Sen. Ricardo Lara (D-Bell Gardens); and L.A. County Sheriff, where the English version endorsed incumbent Jim McDermott, but the Spanish version endorsed challenger Alex Villanueva. In addition, the center-right 'OC Political' blog notes[89], the English and Spanish versions differed on two ballot propositions, and the Spanish version left out several races where there were no Latinos running (but in which Latino voters will still be casting ballots). In addition, the blog noted, 'While the LA Times en Español endorsed 7 Latinos and 1 white man, the LA Times English endorsements for Statewide offices were much more ethnically balanced, with 3 white people, 3 Latinos, 2 Asian Americans, and 1 African American for State office.' Latinorebels.com dug into the text of the endorsements themselves, and found the differences revealing: 'The English version of the LA Times suggests you re-elect U.S. Senator Dianne Feinstein because she comes from a more 'civil and productive era of governance' and has accomplished a great deal like that. The editorial casts doubt on the effectiveness of her challenger, state senator Kevin de León who seems 'unwilling to compromise.' LA Times en Español, however, has a different take. According to its editorial, de León is the best choice because he seems pragmatic and effective enough and knows the immigrant community best. And, after all, 'Dianne Feinstein has been in the Senate since 1992' and that's 'too long. A generational change is needed.' More[90] Deutsch: Trump Won Because Whites Were Not 'Ready for a Black President'[91] Liberals say the darndest things Donny Deutsch is claiming that the white people who were in large part responsible for electing Barack Obama president twice didn't vote for Hillary Clinton because they were not ready for a black president He just can't admit that Hillary turned off her own base when they found out that her campaign had rigged the Democratic primary[92] Liberal Bernie voters felt their candidate had been defrauded Why would they want to turn around and vote for fraudster Hillary??? Dave Pam Key Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 Thursday on 'Deadline,' Donny Deutsch said President Donald Trump's victory is a result of many white people having an uneasiness with former President Barack Obama because there is a big 'racist part of this country.' Deutsch said, 'I felt this. We all know 'Make America Great Again' was make America white again. There were a lot of Americans, a lot of people I knew that would talk about Obama in a, 'Yeah, well, you know,' I just think once Obama got elected president, once he was in charge, it was very different than a guy running for president.' He added, 'And I think there's a bigger racist part of this country. Look we're seeing it, living it. That's what Donald Trump is betting this election on. There were a lot of unhappy people. I would talk to a lot of people 'Well, Obama sucked as a president.' I would go, 'Well, why?' and what they mean is he was black. I don't think we were ready for a black president, and this is people I know, and it's frightening.' More[93] CNN's Don Lemon Doubles Down on Attack of 'White Men'[94] John Nolte Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 CNN's Don Lemon doubled down[95] on his attacks against 'white men' on Wednesday night. 'I made some comments about that in a conversation with Chris [Cuomo],' the anti-Trump activist told his viewers. 'I said that the biggest terror threat in this country comes from radicals on the far right, primarily white men. That angered some people But let's put emotion aside and look at the cold hard facts. The evidence is overwhelming. A recent report from the Government Accountability Office shows that Even though more people died in attacks connected to Islamic extremists, the vast majority of deadly attacks in this country from 2001 to 2016 were carried out by far-right violent extremists.' After admitting Islamic terrorists had killed a whole lot more people than 'white men,' the basement-rated Lemon went on to claim that 'right-wing' extremists are responsible for 74 percent of 'deadly attacks' were carried out by right-wing extremists. Lemon did not explain how 'right-wing extremist' automatically translates into his generalization of 'white men' as a whole. As an example, the mail bomber caught last month will likely be listed as a 'right-wing extremist,' but is a Filipino who identifies as a Seminole Indian. Lemon also cherry-picked a statistic that best fit his partisan narrative, which is a sub-sub-sub statistic based on deadly attacks only between the years 2007-2016. What Lemon did not want his viewers to know, however, is that in less than three years, there have been over 630 recorded acts[96] of violence, threats, vandalism, and bullying by leftists against Trump and his supporters. What's more, Lemon and his far-left network regularly encourage, justify, and dismiss this violence against Trump and his supporters. Just last month, Lemon said leftists have a 'constitutional right[97]' to harass Republicans until they are chased out of a public space, such as a restaurant.

More[98] Trick-Or-Treaters Caught in Gang Crossfire in Philadelphia, Teen Girl and Little Brother Shot[99] Don Lemon should explain how these shootings were because of dangerous white men Dave Warner Todd Huston Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 A teenage girl and her five-year-old brother were caught in the crossfire between gang members shooting at each other as the kids were out trick-or-treating in Philadelphia on Halloween evening, a report says. Makiya Williams, 14, was escorting[100] her five-year-old brother, Mael, out trick-or-treating at around 6:15p.m. on Halloween in the city's Olney neighborhood when two men, apparently from opposing gangs, began shooting at each other on the street catching the kids in between the combatants, NBC 10 reported. Little Mael took a bullet in his left leg, and his big sister was grazed by a bullet also in her leg. Bullets also smashed through the glass of a bedroom window of a nearby home. No one was in the room at the time. 'I was just focused on getting him to safety to make sure he was alright,' the 14-year-old Williams said. But she also had a message for the shooters: 'Do better man. It was in broad daylight!' 'Gun violence is ridiculous,' said Dominique Wise, the mother of the children. 'It makes no sense to send your children out to go trick-or-treating, and then you get a phone call that not one but two of your children were shot.' More[101] Watch: Gavin Newsom Promoted in First-Grade Textbook[102] Dr. Susan Berry Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 A newly released video illustrates how California first graders are subjected to political propaganda when one of their textbooks glorifies Democrat gubernatorial candidate Gavin Newsom. In conjunction with the David Horowitz Freedom Center's Stop K-12 Indoctrination campaign, Sean Fitzgerald exposes[103]the political advertising and messages the young children are forced to absorb in their schools. 'The state of California is using first-grade history textbooks to indoctrinate children to support current California state politicians,' Fitzgerald says in the video. He observes a recent discovery that textbooks used by first graders at the Elk Grove Unified School District contained 'a glowing profile of current California lieutenant governor and gubernatorial candidate Gavin Newsom.' 'The passage hails Newsom as a civil rights hero for his decision as mayor of San Francisco to order the county clerk to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples in the year 2004,' Fitzgerald notes, showing a page in the textbook that states: Gavin said that people could marry who they choose. Sometimes, Gavin helped marry people. Some marriages were not between a man and a woman. He made sure that people's rights were respected. Fitzgerald says the profile of Newsom in the textbook 'reads like a press release from the Newsom campaign,' and has been included in the first- grade history curriculum as a result of a California law known as the Fair Act. 'The Fair Act requires history textbooks in the state of California to be more inclusive when it comes to underrepresented minorities,' explains Fitzgerald. 'I'm not gonna mince any words here. This is the state of California inserting political propaganda into first-grade textbooks, propaganda endorsing the occupant of the second highest office in the state of California.' Fitzgerald and the Freedom Center are advocating for a code of ethics [104]for K-12 educators that prohibits teachers 'from using their classrooms for political, ideological, or religious advocacy.' Ex-California student admits to aiding Syrian terror group[107] Associated Press November 1, 2018 CHICAGO - A former California college student has pleaded guilty to charges of aiding a terrorist organization after earlier arguing he was entitled to immunity because he hooked up with the kind of Syrian rebels the U.S. has backed. Twenty-five-year-old Aws Mohammed Younis Al-Jayab admitted in a plea agreement Wednesday to flying from Chicago to Turkey in 2013, then traveling to Syria. The agreement says he joined Ansar Al-Islam, a precursor to the Islamic State group. The agreement calls for a prison sentence of up to 15 years. Al-Jayab told the judge he wanted to fight the Bashar al-Assad regime, but acknowledged the group he was joining engaged in terrorist actions. He returned to the U.S. in 2014 and settled in Sacramento, California, where he enrolled at a community college. 'Hipster terrorist' pleads guilty to aiding ISIS; another suspect ordered held until trial[108] The number of jihadists being caught in America just keeps going up Dave Louis Casiano Fox News November 1, 2018 A suspect dubbed the 'hipster terrorist' for his stylish beard and captivating social media photos showing him with designer sunglasses and an iced latte pleaded guilty Wednesday to aiding a terrorist organization. Meanwhile, a second suspect, in an unrelated case, was ordered jailed until trial after being accused of spreading propaganda for the Islamic State group. The first suspect, Aws Mohammed Younis al-Jayab, 25, entered his plea, which includes lying to immigration officials, in a federal courtroom in Chicago, the Chicago Tribune reported[109]. As part of a plea agreement with prosecutors, al-Jayab admitted to flying from Chicago to Turkey in November 2013 and entering Syria. He then joined with Al-Islam, a precursor to the Islamic State group. 'I wanted to do the right thing to defend the Syrian people,' al-Jayab told U.S. District Judge Sarah Ellis Wednesday in broken English. Al-Jayab's lawyers previously argued[110] he was entitled to 'combatant immunity' because he linked up not with terrorists, but with Syrian rebels the U.S. has backed in hopes of ousting Syrian leader Bashar al-Assad. He faces up to 15 years in prison, per his plea agreement. Al-Jayab, a Palestinian-born Iraqi, returned to the U.S. in 2014 and settled in Sacramento, Calif., where he registered for computer science classes at a community college. He told immigration officials he had been overseas visiting relatives. He spent much of his childhood in Iraq before coming to the U.S. as a refugee in 2012. While living in Wisconsin and Arizona, he communicated on social media about his intention of traveling to Syria to fight for terrorist groups. 'America will not isolate me from my Islamic duty,' he wrote to a colleague in Syria, according to the charges. 'Only death will do us part. My only wish is to see you and start the action.' In another terror case in Chicago, a federal judge ordered a computer-science specialist accused of being an online propagandist for ISIS jailed until trial. The judge cited photos arresting agents found on his phone this month showing bomb-making components. Some of his alleged propaganda included a video showing a Christmas gift containing a ticking time bomb. World Wide Web Founder Tim Berners-Lee: May Be 'No Alternative' to Breaking Up Tech Giants[113] Lucas Nolan Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 The founder of the World Wide Web, Tim Berners-Lee, stated in a recent interview that tech giants such as Google and Facebook have become so dominant in the online landscape that they may need to be broken up. In an interview with Reuters[114], the founder of the World Wide Web, Tim Berners-Lee, discussed the growing dominance of tech giants such as Google and Facebook stating that he believes it may be necessary at some point to break these companies up. Lee, an English computer scientist who is credited with inventing the Web in 1989, has previously discussed his disappointment in the state of the Internet due to the abuse of user data and spread of 'hate speech' online. Now, Berners-Lee is particularly worried about the growing power wielded by Google and Facebook: 'What naturally happens is you end up with one company dominating the field so through history there is no alternative to really coming in and breaking things up,' said Berners-Lee in an interview with Reuters. 'There is a danger of concentration.' 'Living in Straight Terror': Asia Bibi's Family Seeks Asylum in West as Mobs Demand Her Death[117] Frances Martel Breitbart News 1 Nov 2018 Pop quiz: Who would you rather have living next door to you Christian like these, or Muslims like these? Dave .. The family of Asia Bibi, a Christian mother acquitted of blasphemy in Pakistan Wednesday after nearly a decade on death row, is 'living in straight terror' and seeking a Western country to grant expedited asylum in the face of violent protests calling for her death, the chairman of a charity aiding Christians in the country told Breitbart News on Thursday. 'Asia Bibi has suffered enough, she just needs a country willing to rub away any bureaucracy,' Wilson Chowdhry, the head of the British Pakistani Christian Association (BPCA), explained, adding that Bibi herself is 'totally terrified,' and her family - her husband, three adult children, and two dependent children - are currently beginning the asylum process. Embassies take days and sometimes months to process asylum requests, however, and Chowdhry noted that, given the amount of animosity against Bibi, she may not have that much time before someone attempts to kill her. To prevent a mob killing, Chowdhry told Breitbart News, the family is requesting that a Western country 'remove protocol and just accept them for asylum in the next two days.' He notes that, given the thousands-strong protests demanding her death in Pakistan, her case is an exceptional one with little need to prove she is in danger because of her religion. The BPCA has launched[118] a petition demanding asylum for Bibi and her family. The family wishes to go to the West, he added, because outside of the region, Christian persecution is sadly all too common, and her decade-long struggle for freedom is internationally known.
