

Gwinnett Opinions; READERS RESPOND: Gwinnett and Georgia should take action to make bicycling safe

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution
March 12, 2008 Wednesday, Main Edition

Copyright 2008 The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution
ajc.com

Section: GWINNETT NEWS; Pg. 4J

Length: 546 words

Byline: ANNE HUGHES, KEVIN CAFFERTY, SCOTT HENLE

For the Journal-Constitution

Body

---

I enjoyed the piece in the AJC about public transportation ("Ignoring the need for improved public transit," AJC Gwinnett Opinions, March 2).

I am a new resident of Georgia and, as a cyclist, I had high hopes for cycling and cycle commuting here in the greater Atlanta area. A state such as Georgia, which sponsors one of the largest cycling events in the country (Tour de Georgia), appears from the outside to be very pro-cycling.

I live in Gwinnett and would like to become involved with improving/promoting cycling in our county. The current condition of Gwinnett roads with regard to their suitability for cycle commuting puts riders in real danger.

This a public safety issue. Several weekends ago, my wife and I were on Buford Highway and observed a middle-aged woman on a bike trying to navigate the very narrow shoulder and avoid getting hit by a car. All she was trying to do was enjoy a beautiful Georgia weekend day and have a bike ride. That poor woman was taking her life in her hands, and it shouldn't be this way. I see countless kids riding and adults going, I assume, to and from work, and there is no continuous safe route for them to take.

Cycling in Gwinnett often involves putting your safety at risk needlessly, as the shoulders are more than wide enough to support a bike lane, except for the tractor tread texturing that makes those areas unridable and forces cyclists out into traffic lanes. This issue needs to be addressed and should be an easy fix.

The issue of real bike lanes must be addressed to accommodate fitness, commuting, and to combat or offer alternatives to high gas prices, obesity, poor air quality, etc.

Sugarloaf Parkway is an example of how all or the majority of roads should be configured. In addition to bike lanes, the Silver Comet Trail is hugely popular but too far from Gwinnett. Where is our version?

KEVIN CAFFERTY, Duluth

Learning a language sharpens other skills

Gwinnett Opinions; READERS RESPOND: Gwinnett and Georgia should take action to make bicycling safe

Language learning involves using both sides of the brain ("Kids' language instruction can't override basics," AJC Gwinnett News, March 4). Learning a language has been recommended for the elderly in the early stages of dementia or Alzheimer's because it is, in effect, the best "exercise" for the brain to keep memory and thinking skills intact.

When children learn a language, their thinking skills in all disciplines are greatly improved. In my language classes, we also learn science (weather), math (numbers), social studies and history, supporting all the other teachers in my school. Why not begin at the earliest possible age to give our kids the greatest advantage?

ANNE HUGHES, Covington

Snellville Diner gets a thumbs up

My family and I (wife and my two young children) ate at the new Snellville Diner last week ("A night on the town in Snellville," AJC Gwinnett Opinions, Feb. 29). We had a great meal with more food than we could eat, and it was very affordably priced. The service was good and very accommodating, as my son was throwing a fit until the owner stopped by with two of their giant cookies for the kids.

I will visit them again, and would recommend it as a place to eat. The cuisine was not your run-of-the-mill burger or fried-food variety. It is probably something that hasn't been seen in Snellville before. Give it a try.

SCOTT HENLE, Snellville

Graphic

---

Photo: ANDY SHARP / StaffThe scenic Silver Comet Trail in Cobb County is only a dream for bike riders in Gwinnett County. A writer wants to know "Where is our version?"

Classification

---

Language: ENGLISH

Document-Type: Letters

Publication-Type: Newspapers

Subject: CYCLING (91%); COMMUTING (90%); BICYCLE SAFETY (89%); BICYCLES (89%); CHILDREN (88%); LANGUAGE & LANGUAGES (87%); EXERCISE & FITNESS (77%); DEMENTIA (75%); ADULTS (73%); SPORTS & RECREATION EVENTS (72%); MIDDLE AGED PERSONS (68%); TEACHING & TEACHERS (67%); ARTS & HUMANITIES EDUCATION (66%); OBESITY (65%); HUMANITIES & SOCIAL SCIENCE (65%); ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE (65%); AGING (60%); SENIOR CITIZENS (60%); OIL & GAS PRICES (50%)

Industry: PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION (90%); BICYCLE SAFETY (89%); BICYCLES (89%); SPONSORSHIP (76%); OIL & GAS PRICES (50%)

Geographic: ATLANTA, GA, USA (79%); GEORGIA, USA (92%)

Gwinnett Opinions; READERS RESPOND: Gwinnett and Georgia should take action to make bicycling safe

Load-Date: March 12, 2008

---

End of Document