

Big Money, Cheap Labor

The New York Times

May 28, 2000, Sunday, Late Edition - Final

Copyright 2000 The New York Times Company

Distribution: Money and Business/Financial Desk

Section: Section 3; ; Section 3; Page 16; Column 1; Money and Business/Financial Desk ; Column 1; ; Letter

Length: 114 words

Body

---

To the Editor:

Re "A Forgotten Threat: Free Trade in Population," (May 7), I despair that we can get the immigration "breather" the article wisely recommends without first enacting true campaign finance reform. Many industries have become deeply addicted to cheap immigrant labor. They maintain their supply by inundating Congress with money, reminding politicians to reward wealthy interests with even more permissive immigration policies.

Meanwhile, the nation suffers industrialized overpopulation, environmental destruction, balkanized communities, crowded schools, reduced natural resources and overtaxed infrastructure.

BRENDA WALKER

Berkeley, Calif., May 8

<http://www.nytimes.com>

Classification

---

Language: ENGLISH

Subject: IMMIGRATION (78%); PUBLIC POLICY (78%); IMMIGRATION LAW (78%); CAMPAIGN FINANCE (72%)

Geographic: SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA, CA, USA (78%); CALIFORNIA, USA (79%)

Load-Date: May 28, 2000