About 150 immigrants are expected to become United States citizens during a ceremony at 11 a.m. Monday, July 3, on the Riverfront Overlook at the Arch.

The immigrants, all Missouri residents, will begin filling out citizenship papers at 8:15 a.m. in the Federal Courthouse. After the paperwork is completed, they will move down to the riverfront for a ceremony conducted by a U.S. District Court judge. The immigrants will renounce the citizenship of their native countries and then the judge will administer the oath of citizenship for the United States, said Chester Moyer, director of the Immigration and Naturalization office in St. Louis.
