Reform Party presidential contender Pat Buchanan blamed "mass immigration" for a splintering of American culture on Tuesday and pledged to stem the flow if he captures the White House. "In too many cases, the American melting pot has been reduced to a simmer," Buchanan told 350 people at the Richard Nixon Library & Birthplace. "If we want to assimilate new Americans - and we have no choice if we are going to remain one nation - we must slow down the pace of immigration," Nixon's former speech writer said.
