

In Israel, Help for Ethiopian Huddled Masses

The New York Times

September 14, 1996, Saturday, Late Edition - Final

Copyright 1996 The New York Times Company

Distribution: Editorial Desk

Section: Section 1; ; Section 1; Page 18; Column 4; Editorial Desk ; Column 4; ; Letter

Length: 278 words

Body

To the Editor:

William Safire correctly points out the devastation occurring in the Ethiopian Israeli community because of inadequate educational opportunities (column, Sept. 9). But Ethiopian children have not been deliberately "shunted" by government policy to "the worst schools in the poorest neighborhoods."

Most Ethiopian immigrant families are poor, live in poor neighborhoods and send their children to underfinanced, overcrowded neighborhood schools. These schools are disastrous for all children, but the Ethiopian youngsters fare worst because their parents usually lack any formal education of their own with which to enrich their children's learning opportunities.

Moreover, there are already channels through which "outsiders can participate" in immediate corrective measures. The New York City-based North American Conference on Ethiopian Jewry, for example, sponsors assistance programs, and the Washington-based New Israel Fund provides grants to nonprofit organizations in Israel.

Mr. Safire doesn't mention one of the most psychologically pressing problems affecting Ethiopian Israelis -- the many divided families still waiting, five years after Operation Solomon, for family members left behind in Ethiopia. Their long-delayed immigration causes as much anguish in Israel as in Addis Ababa.

Finally, it is surely time to stop referring to, and thinking of, Ethiopian Israelis as "black Jews." They are immigrants to Israel like any others, and their problems are not due to skin color but to poverty, lack of education and an enormous cultural and technological gap.

MARK C. LEVY

Santa Monica, Calif., Sept. 10, 1996

Classification

Language: ENGLISH

Subject: CHILDREN (90%); FAMILY (90%); JEWS & JUDAISM (78%); NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS (78%); ASSOCIATIONS & ORGANIZATIONS (78%); IMMIGRATION (77%); POVERTY & HOMELESSNESS (72%); GRANTS & GIFTS (68%); PUBLIC POLICY (57%)

In Israel, Help for Ethiopian Huddled Masses

Company: MARK C HULSE (54%); MARK C HULSE (54%); NEW ISRAEL FUND (56%); NEW ISRAEL FUND (56%)

Organization: NEW ISRAEL FUND (56%); NEW ISRAEL FUND (56%); NEW ISRAEL FUND (56%); NEW ISRAEL FUND (56%)

Geographic: ADIS ABEBA, ETHIOPIA (79%); NEW YORK, NY, USA (79%); NEW YORK, USA (79%); CALIFORNIA, USA (71%); ISRAEL (95%); ETHIOPIA (94%); UNITED STATES (79%); NORTH AMERICA (79%)

Load-Date: September 14, 1996

End of Document