A Federal district judge today refused to stay the order he issued Tuesday to free 1,900 detained Haitian refugees.

The Government, seeking to block a large-scale release of the Haitians and to avoid what it said would be a new influx of aliens, immediately filed an appeal with the United States Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit, in Atlanta.

MIAMI, June 30 (UPI) - A Federal district judge today refused to stay the order he issued Tuesday to free 1,900 detained Haitian refugees.

The Justice Department, anticipating Judge Eugene P. Spellman's refusal to stay his order, said Tuesday it would not free the refugees until its appeal was decided.

The Government also asked Judge Spellman to issue a separate ruling that would allow the Immigration and Naturalization Service to detain refugees who came to Florida in the next 60 days. Government lawyers said today that up to 40,000 Haitians were in the Bahamas, waiting to immigrate to the United States while Federal "immigration laws are in a mess."

Judge Spellman said he would rule on that motion within 10 days.
