Canada is deporting U.S. woman who fled to avoid war in Iraq Conservative government's policy denies asylum to soldiers who flee military service.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch (Missouri)

August 31, 2012 Friday, THIRD EDITION

Copyright 2012 St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Inc. All Rights Reserved

Section: NEWS; Pg. A19

Length: 467 words

Byline: By CHARMAINE NORONHA • Associated Press

Dateline: 0

Body

TORONTO - Canada has ordered the deportation of a female soldier who fled the U.S. military in order to avoid the war in Iraq, officials said Thursday.

War Resisters Support Campaign spokeswoman Michelle Robidoux said that Citizenship and Immigration Canada has ordered Kimberly Rivera to leave the country by Sept. 20.

Rivera is meeting with her attorneys to determine her next step and was unavailable to comment, said Robidoux.

"We are very upset about this decision," said Robidoux. "The cases of war resisters are not being looked at properly. (Immigration Minister Jason) Kenney continues to intervene by telling immigration officers to red flag U.S. soldiers who are applying for asylum as criminally inadmissible. We think that has tainted the whole process and the government should withdraw that directive."

Robidoux said her organization would probably call on Kenney to grant the woman's family humanitarian and compassionate consideration and allow them to stay.

"Canada's immigration system is considered among the most fair and generous in the world. It is a matter of public record that Ms. Rivera has had multiple opportunities to make her case to stay in Canada," said Kenney's spokeswoman, Alexis Pavlich.

Rivera, 30, an Army private, served in Iraq in 2006. She said she became disillusioned with the mission. She crossed the border into Canada while on leave in February 2007, after she was ordered to serve another tour there.

After arriving in Canada on leave, she applied for refugee status.

She currently lives in Toronto with her husband and four children. Her two youngest children were born in Canada.

In January 2009, Canada's Immigration and Refugee Board ordered her and her family to leave the country or face deportation. Rivera appealed the ruling.

Rivera's attorney, Alyssa Manning, has argued in Canada's federal court that her client would be likely to face a court martial and jail time of up to five years, if she is deported.

The War Resisters Support Campaign, which notes that there are about 200 Iraq war resisters in Canada, said two other Iraq war resisters who were deported, Robin Long and Clifford Cornell, faced year-long jail sentences upon their return.

Canada is deporting U.S. woman who fled to avoid war in Iraq Conservative government's policy denies asylum to soldiers who flee military service.

Long was given a dishonorable discharge in 2008 and sentenced to 15 months in a military prison after pleading guilty to charges of desertion.

The lower house of Canada's Parliament passed a nonbinding motion in 2009 urging that U.S. military deserters be allowed to stay in Canada, but the Conservative government ignored the vote.

During the Vietnam War, up to 90,000 Americans won refuge in Canada, most of them to avoid the military draft. Many were given permanent residence status that led to Canadian citizenship, but the majority went home after then-President Jimmy Carter granted amnesty in the late 1970s.

Graphic

Photo by Michelle Siu • Associated Press Kimberly Rivera, a soldier who fled the U.S. military in order to avoid the war in Iraq, plays with her children in their home in Toronto on Thursday. Canada has ordered her to leave the country by Sept. 20.

Classification

Language: ENGLISH

Publication-Type: Newspaper

Subject: IMMIGRATION (91%); REFUGEES (90%); DEPORTATION (89%); CITIZENSHIP (89%); IMMIGRATION LAW (89%); IRAQ WAR (89%); SENTENCING (87%); JAIL SENTENCING (87%); AMNESTY (78%); INADMISSIBILITY OF IMMIGRANTS (78%); WAR & CONFLICT (78%); MILITARY COURTS (78%); POLITICAL ASYLUM (78%); APPEALS (76%); LAWYERS (76%); ASSOCIATIONS & ORGANIZATIONS (76%); TERRITORIAL & NATIONAL BORDERS (73%); VIETNAM WAR (73%); LEGISLATIVE BODIES (72%); GUILTY PLEAS (67%); LAW COURTS & TRIBUNALS (62%); PRISONS (61%)

Industry: LAWYERS (76%)

Person: JIMMY CARTER (57%)

Geographic: TORONTO, ON, CANADA (89%); ONTARIO, CANADA (74%); CANADA (98%); IRAQ (94%);

UNITED STATES (94%)

Load-Date: September 10, 2012

End of Document